Crime, roads recurring issues at county forum

JANICE HUSER
Review Contributor

Crime and roads were two of the recurring issues that arose during the County of St. Paul election forum on Wednesday night.

Rows of chairs were filled at the St. Paul Rec. Centre with county and town residents, eager to hear from the candidates on a variety of issues. Emcee for the night Kevin Bernhardt said he was happy to see the night's turnout.

"This is very encouraging to me," said Bernhardt. He reminded residents that after the forum, the most important thing is to "go out and vote."

The evening began with an opening statement by each candidate. Incumbent reeve Steve Upham spoke first, noting that he was the first reeve at large elected in the County of St. Paul in 2010, and believe there's a "new energy" within the staff at the county, following an organization review that began in 2015.

"The unknown is our biggest threat," said Upham, referring to the next four years.

Reeve candidate and past public works superintendent Leo deMoissac was next to speak. He acknowledged that in his past role, he wasn't always popular with ratepayers when carrying out decisions made by council. But, because of his past experience, he has a thorough working knowledge of the county.

"I am invested in this community."

Past Division 1 councillor and reeve candidate Glen Ockerman was next to speak. He spoke about how he felt the reeve's role was a very important one, and that one of his many qualifications for the job was "common sense."

In Division 1, only candidate Darrell Youngmans was in attendance, with candidate Dean Smith unable to attend the forum.

In Division 2, candidates Myra Bochon, Kevin Wrista, and Ron Herard spoke and answered questions.

In Division 3, incumbent Cliff Martin was joined by candidate Ray Suvak. For Division 4 candidate James McGonigal sat next to incumbent Maxine Fodness.

For Division 5 all three candidates were also in attendance - Dale Hedrick, Barry Sallstrom, and Ric Webster. Division 6 incumbent Laurent Amyotte was acclaimed.

County forum

Roads

Maintenance and construction of roads proved to be a big issue, in the form of written questions directed to the candidates, and noted throughout the night at various times.

Heraid said that as a school bus driver, he's driven on the roads plenty, and had a specific close call in the winter where the bus he was driving went down a hill backward. That situation is what influenced him to put his name forward as a candidate.

"I do believe we need changes in the county," he said.

Hedrick said he felt more input was needed from residents on which roads the county should be rebuilding, and he also was concerned about a lack of oiling roads.

Sallstrom noted that one of his priorities was effective summer and winter maintenance of the roads. He said he felt the county's policy regarding snow removal should be looked at, especially considering the large spring snowstorms that resulted in many residents being unable to leave their homes for a couple days at a time, in some cases.

The second question of the night directed to the candidates spoke about the condition of county roads, and how they appeared to be getting worse.

Upham referred to the weather over the past year, where roads froze with a lot of moisture, and thawed in the spring, which also saw heavy snowfall. He said he felt there was a "vast improvement" in the quality of roads over the past summer, with better quality gravel being accessed.

"We can't forget that the damage on roads, it all comes with the traffic that we've gained over the last 10, 15, 20 years. I remember when I was a kid there were two big trucks . . . now everyone has huge trucks," said deMoissac.

He noted that because of the spring weather, a start on road rehabilitation stayed right until mid-summer. "It's going to take time, but we have come a long ways with our roads . . . Really at the end of the day, roads are always going to be a challenge."

Sallstrom also spoke on the issue, noting poor gravel and inexperienced operators likely led to the poor road conditions. "We need trained operators."

The state of Township Road 582 also came up, which is a heavily used road located just north of St. Paul.

As the division councillor, Fodness responded to the concern first, stating a few years ago council decided as a whole that no new oiling would be done. But, just a couple weeks ago, council has decided to look at the issue again.

She noted that money could be moved from building roads to oiling roads, and personally felt there were a number of roads in Division 4 that could use oil.

McGonigal also spoke on the issue, stating he had heard concerns about County of St. Paul trucks using TWP 582. He added that if elected, he would choose wisely which roads get the attention.

Ockerman explained that the county has started numbering roads based on usage, with level 5 being heavy traffic, and level 1 being the least amount of traffic. The system also takes into account the number of residents along the road.

"We want main arteries throughout the county," said Ockerman.

Upham also spoke to the issue, saying TWP 582 "is a significant problem," and that before the road could be oiled, it would need a good base on it.

"It all boils down to money," said deMoissac, simply. He added that he could think of a lot of roads in a similar position that need work.

Suvak then took his turn on the microphone, speaking about the importance of a good base on a road, but added that he felt "we have decent roads right now. We need maintenance on them."

Crime

Throughout the night, a number of candidates referred to what they believe to be an increase in property crime taking place in the county.

Younghans was one of the first to bring up the issue of crime. He noted that crime, break-ins and theft are all people talk about lately, and he felt the county should lobby provincial and federal governments to have these serious issues addressed.

Hedrick also brought up concerns about crime, noting more RCMP members are needed in the area.

The first questions of the night to be asked was regarding support for Rural Crime Watch, to which each of the reeve candidates responded that they supported the community initiative, and would work with the organization to hopefully influence change.

Waste

Another question that garnered quite a few answers from candidates was if they supported the waste energy conversion project that the Town of St. Paul is currently looking at through a feasibility study.

Reeve candidate deMoissac was the first to speak, saying his quick answer was that it's "not feasible."

He noted that hauling large amounts of garbage on the roads is an issue in itself, and a "huge expense."

Ockerman also spoke, stating he has acted as chair of the Evergreen Regional Waste Management Services Commission, and believes that one thing that drives recycling is economics and tonnage. If large cities have a hard time coming up with adequate tonnage to make projects feasible, he was unsure of how the St. Paul area would make it work.

Upham noted that while everyone believes in recycling and making the world a better place, the project needs to be feasible to work.

"It's a wonderful idea . . . but the dots don't connect."

Fodness also spoke to the matter, noting it would likely result in another tax, since it's an expensive project, and someone has to pay for it. She felt that everyone needs to rethink what they're doing on an individual basis when it comes to reducing waste in their own homes.

Debt

A question regarding the county's level of debt was also brought up.

Upham said he wasn't concerned with the county's current debt. User fees, paid by the people who benefit from the projects, would cover most of the debt, he noted.

"To me, it's not a concern."

Ockerman then took the microphone and noted he was concerned by the debt incurred. He referred to the downturn in economy, but also acknowledged that some projects were 90/10 funding, which made things worthwhile to pursue.

Candidate deMoissac also spoke briefly on the matter, saying, the county does need to borrow money for some projects, but it also has to be careful with its spending.

Amalgamation

A question directed at the idea of amalgamation of the county with other neighbouring municipalities also resulted in a number of responses from candidates.

Upham pointed to Lac La Biche as an example of how it takes a lot of work to make amalgamation work.

"They've struggled," he said, adding, now that Lac La Biche has a mayor who is capable of bridging the gap, and leading effectively, it is coming together.

He added that he wasn't sure if the two communities – County of St. Paul and Town of St. Paul – were ready yet to take the step toward amalgamation.

In his view, deMoissac noted that the same amount of work still has to be done, whether that be roadwork or utilities, and he felt the cost savings would be minimal.

Ockerman said in some cases, amalgamation works. For example, the community of Mallaig is part of the County of St. Paul, and it works very well. He noted that he could see an amalgamation with the Town of Elk Point being a possibility in the future, "anything's possible," but also noted that in any case, he wouldn't want to see the county incur anyone else's debt.

Support for libraries, the state of a beach area at St. Vincent Lake, past experience, support for small businesses, and support for youth were among the other issues touched on.

At the end of the night, each candidate was once again given the opportunity to speak, and offer closing comments.

In his closing comments, Sallstrom brought up the plebiscite question that will be asked during the municipal election on Oct. 16, regarding the idea of the county hiring bylaw enforcement officers. He said that he was offended to know that the future council wouldn't be bound by the results of the plebiscite.

Ockerman also made a statement in his closing comments, saying his first order of business as reeve would be to reduce the reeve's base salary by $500 a month. When Upham offered his closing comments, he referred to Ockerman's comment jokingly, saying he didn't want to see his salary decrease.

"The future of the County of St. Paul is in the hands of the people in front of me," said Bernhardt, as he wrapped up the forum. He again encouraged everyone in attendance to reach out to their friends and family and encourage them to all vote.

Drobot sets new record at SPAA Cross Country

JANICE HUSER
Review Contributor

While it's a short season and the weather can often be unpredictable, this year's St. Paul Athletics Association (SPAA) cross-country running championship offered athletes an ideal day of running on Sept. 28.

"The day was beautiful, the scenery was good . . . it was a perfect day for running," said Dustin Dubrule, a Grade 10 student who now holds the course record in the junior boys 4,000 m race. The Regional High School student set a time of 15:07 on Thursday.

Dubrule says he trains on his own through the summer months, running nearly every day. Once school gets back in session, he trains alongside his fellow classmates at least three times a week.

"I love being outside and running in the weather," says Dubrule. Heading into his first senior high cross-country competition, Dubrule says he trained hard, and knew the competition would be fierce.

When he found out on Friday morning that he had set a new record, he admits he "wasn't expecting it."

But, Dubrule is just one of many athletes who found success on the trails at Ross Lake, last week. St. Paul Regional High School sent a total of 31 athletes to compete, and brought home both the boys' and girls' SPAA banners.

Out of those 31 students, 11 of them earned medals, which was "awesome to see," according to coach Hank Smid. Working alongside Smid this year training the athletes were staff members Tim Penner and Lisa Starosielski.

Smid says this year's SPAA group was a little bigger than last year's, and he's hoping to send a large group to zones, on Oct. 11, in Bonnyville. Once that competition wraps up, qualifying students will head to provincials on Oct. 21 in Edmonton.

"Zones will be a big test for us," says Smid.

A second record was also set last week, with DJ Drobot setting a course record of 23:31 in the senior boys 6,000 m race.

Junior

Junior high athletes also made the trip to Ross Lake on Thursday, to compete in the junior SPAA cross-country event. Racette Junior High School was successful in winning both the boys' and girls' banners.

"Everyone put in 110 per cent effort," says Mandy Palinka, one of this year's coaches from Racette. Coach Gilles Gervais, and co-coach Kylie Field joined her in coaching the young athletes.

While Racette has won the cross-country banners in the past, it is always humbling to come out on top, knowing there is a lot of competition within

"We are very proud of the kids who come out and practice three times a week," says Palinka. She adds that practices for runners started on the second day of school.

This year, 19 Grade 6 runners took part in the cross-country event on Thursday, which shows the strength of the program at Racette. Technically, the Grade 6 students do not count toward the banner win, and they aren't allowed to cross the finish line, but "their enthusiasm is amazing."

The Grade 6 students took part in the 2 km run on Thursday, and while the more seasoned athletes know what to expect, the youngest runners go into the competition knowing only that they like to run, says Palinka.

A time to get answers

This evening, Elk Point and District Chamber of Commerce is hosting an All-Candidates Forum for the candidates running for Elk Point Mayor and council.

The purpose of a candidates' forum is to give the voters an opportunity to learn about the candidates, their backgrounds, their election platforms and their views on issues facing the community.

It also gives the public an opportunity to ask questions of the candidates, and when a town resident arrives at tonight's forum, he or she will have the opportunity to fill out a sheet asking a question of one or more candidates, or the whole lineup.

It's a time to get the answers that will help you to make a wise decision on Oct. 16, so don't miss it!

Fire Department boat

The Elk Point Fire Department is putting together a calendar of the force in action to raise money for a new rescue boat. Fire Chief, Jordan Cousins, says a new boat is needed after the old one proved to be unreliable.

"The old boat just isn't made for the river here. We went out on a rescue this year, with three people on the boat, got down the North Saskatchewan River, in about a half hour to Heinsburg, took almost two hours to get back, because we kept bottoming out," Chief Cousins says the force will be looking into more river-friendly boats. The Fire Department is in the process of researching boats and costs.

The fire fighters came up with a fun idea to make a calendar of the crew in action, says Cousins. "It's gonna be pictures of us in action, putting out fires, cutting up cars (obviously not with crash victims) and pictures of us in uniform." The fire department will be using local photographer, Cathy Olstad, to capture them in action.

"We're hoping to have the calendar done and ready to sell for January," Cousins says. Watch for updates.

Amy Hawkins, Charlene Anderson, Nicole Poitras and Renee Anderson won gold at the Provincial High School Golf Championships in Fort McMurray.

Eleven of F. G. Banner year for Elk Point town council

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

It was looking like a banner year for Elk Point town council at last week's regular meeting, as they agreed to wind up the Elk Point Walking Trail project by ordering additional banners to be put in place next spring, after the Public Works department fabricates the brackets to attach them to light standards.

The double-sided banners will have a design that includes the town's logo, the grain elevator, a grain field with bales and a pump jack on one side, and the Canadian flag on the other, and Coun. Debra McQuinn suggested that the banners be constructed so the sides visible to foot and vehicle traffic alternate between the two designs.

To be hung on 50 Street from Railway Ave. to the Elementary School and on 50 Ave. from Highway 41 west to 54 Street, the banners will use up the remaining funds budgeted from the 2016 Municipal Sustainability Initiative (MSI) grant to match the Walking Trail Major Community Facility Project grant.

Part of the remaining funds from two grants dating back to 2004 and 2005 will be used to enhance the Iron Horse Trail. The sum of $2,824.96 has been sitting in an Iron Horse Trail Capital Reserve account and will allow the town to purchase another 10 banners for along the Iron Horse Trail. Another account holds $5,214.52, the remainder of grants from Alberta TrailNet and Riverland Recreational Trail Society that were used for development of the Elk Point Staging Area. Riverland had submitted a request for 2017 MSI funding of $2,000 to replace a culvert on the trail of town, but the influx of requests for that grant meant that Riverland was turned down at that time. Council has now agreed to provide that funding out of that Deferred Revenue account, and to leave use of the $3,214.42 balance in the account to be decided at upcoming strategic planning sessions after the election.

Borrowing bylaw

Council gave second and third readings to Borrowing Bylaw 765/17 which allows the Town to guarantee a $220,000 loan and a $75,000 line of credit for the Elk Point Regional Allied Arts Society at the Servus Credit Union, with this responsibility shared with the County of St. Paul No. 19 on a 50/50 basis.

Refinancing

A motion made at the previous council meeting regarding refinancing Loan 6, in the amount of $1.3 million, was rescinded due to an error that stated the loan could be prepaid without penalty, which was not the case. A new motion not including that statement was passed to replace it.

Change of plans

Rather than paying the County of St. Paul in several increments for the rubber tired excavator they are purchasing from that municipality, council agreed Monday night to pay the full amount, and to adjust the town's five-year capital plan and the 2017 capital budget accordingly.

Business license bylaw

Elk Point's business license bylaw, passed in 2009, is in need of an update, because at that time, the money collected went to fund the town's Economic Development Committee, a body that is no longer in operation. Council will discuss the needed changes at the Oct. 10 meeting.

A draft asset management policy was also deferred to that meeting.

Suggestions duly noted

Council received an email complimenting the town on its appearance and suggesting that a picnic table be located near the Peter Fidler statue. The correspondence also pointed out the current state of the road to the river campground and suggested signage indicating the viewing platform as an attraction. Council moved that the administration consider the requests.

County subdivision

The County of St. Paul has advised the town of a proposed subdivision a half mile east of town, with zoning of the proposed subdivided parcel to remain agricultural. Council agreed that they had no problem with the proposal.

Tax forfeiture

Three of the four properties up for tax sale received acceptable bids, however one had no bids. Council agreed to advise the owner that the town will now start proceedings to transfer the title for that property to the town. If the property is sold by the town after the town becomes the title holder, the sale must be at a price as close as possible to market value, and the funds from that sale, less that amount owing to the town, would go to the former owner.

Christmas function

Planning is now underway for a

Christmas event for town council and staff and their families.

Day care access

Relocation of the day care to its original site has brought concerns regarding traffic to the attention of council members. Parents have still been using the alley to access the facility, rather than the front entrance, which was included in conditions for the business permit. Speeding in the alley has also been alleged, and all alleys in town have a 30-km/hr. speed limit. The day care operator will be contacted by the administration on behalf of council regarding the conditions of the permit, and the RCMP will be contacted regarding speeding that could impact the safety of children in the area.

Dog policy

Councillors have also heard from a resident who no longer feels it safe to walk because of dangerous dogs, and who feels that pit bulls should not be allowed in town. It was noted that the dog policy does have a section on dangerous dogs, and that other, much smaller dogs have bitten people in Elk Point. The administration was directed to review the animal bylaw as it pertains to dangerous dogs and to bring it forward at the Oct. 10 council meeting.

Elk Point Elementary runs for Terry Fox

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Elk Point Elementary School students, staff and parents continued a long-standing tradition on Friday as they took part in the annual Terry Fox Run.

Students saw a pair of videos showing the young cancer victim's perseverance and enduring will as he ran 3,339 miles across Canada's eastern provinces despite having one leg amputated, a feat he undertook after his former basketball coach inspired him with the story of an amputee who ran the New York Marathon. Fox ran the equivalent of that marathon 143 days in a row before he succumbed to cancer.

Thirty seven years later, the spirit of Terry Fox lives on in the longest ever marathon, the annual Terry Fox Runs across the nation.

EPE Physical Education teacher Christie Roche introduced EPE's own cancer survivors, teacher Debbie Wood and principal Rob MacDonald, and five students whose families have been impacted by cancer, who would carry the flags and lead the walk down 50 St. to 50 Ave., west to 54 Street and north to 52 Ave., and turning north to wind up at the Alberta Centennial Stage.

IMPACTED FAMILY MEMBERS and cancer survivors led the 2017 walk.

HONOREES - Christie Roche introduced this year's parade flag bearers.

Reeve-at-large candidates speak out on issues, aims

Leo deMoissac

I have a thorough working knowledge of the whole county and I have the ability to work with all councillors. I have a passion for the county because it's my home. I have raised my family here and I am invested in this community. I am recently retired and have the time to dedicate myself to the issues of the county.

An important issue is the relationship between the County and the towns of St. Paul and Elk Point. Another big concern to me is the rash of break-ins within our municipality. Road maintenance is always an important issue. And finally we have to come to a proper consensus of the regional landfill.

If I knew hiring a peace officer would solve the crime problems in the county, then, I would say yes, but we all know that won't be the case. A neighbouring municipality has over 12 peace officers and there is just as much crime reported in that area as in our county. Just a suggestion – maybe we can invest more in our rural crime watch, lobby our MLA and MP to ask for changes to our justice system, impose stiffer fines and jail time, when the RCMP do catch these criminals. This will be a great discussion for the new council.

Glen Ockerman

Why run – After being on council for the past several years, I believe I have the knowledge and qualities – fair, transparent, honest and utilizing common sense to lead the county. One of the first orders of business under my leadership will be to reduce the Reeve's base salary by $500/month. This will show the style of leadership that I am committed to bring to the County of St. Paul.

The two biggest issues facing the county, in my opinion, are road construction and maintenance, and property crime and needing to feel safe in our home communities.

The role of the bylaw officer is limited only to enforcing municipal bylaws and traffic infractions. They have no jurisdiction to deal with property crime or criminal activities. I will not be supporting hiring a bylaw officer as it does not address the criminal activities that our communities are plagued with. (Let's all work together to bring in better legislation to bring these criminals to justice once and for all).

Steve Upham (incumbent)

I have really enjoyed the rewards and challenges that come with the position and I am proud of what has been accomplished in the last 4 years.

I'm excited about the reorganization and the new positions that have resulted and want to continue to help guide the ongoing work on behalf of the residents.

The biggest challenge over the next few years will be the uncertainty regarding revenues, not only from government but also industrial and residential assessment. Downward pressure on home values will affect our bottom line. Of course theft and crime in general has been a concern for residents and we are going to have to try and find solutions such as energizing neighbourhood crime watch to get networks of neighbours watching out for neighbours. The RCMP is stretched to the limit.

Administration has asked us many times over the last couple years to consider bylaw enforcement-peace officers. Council has been split on the issue and we've made the decision to ask the people.

The idea has merit. We've got to get over the notion that all they'll do is hand out speeding and overload tickets.

They'll be our officers and will enforce what we ask them to enforce. Suspicious activity, blatant disregard for overloading or abuse of our infrastructure, things like that, would be my focus if residents vote in favour.

Farmers have enough challenges without us giving them a ticket for a burnt out tail light. In the end residents will tell us what they want.

These candidate profiles submitted by the candidates in the upcoming County of St. Paul Election

Two councillor candidates in Division 1

Dean Smith

Dean Smith owns and operates a family farm and an oilfield maintenance company within the division. Dean and his spouse have four children. He is involved on the Wolf Lake Grazing Association board as well as his children's activities.

Why he's running - a. I plan to bring more fiscal responsibility to the council.

b. I will work towards finding solutions to help reduce the level of crime in the county.

c. I will strive to continually work on improving the infrastructure within the division.

d. I will give a strong voice for agriculture.

e. I will work with industry to enhance economic growth for all stakeholders in the division.

f. I want to try and put more tax dollars back into the areas they are collected from.

g. I will listen to the concerns of the people in the division to create new priorities to take to council.

On bylaw enforcement - It is important for voters to realize that peace officers can only enforce county bylaws and traffic violations. This will not reduce the level of crime in the county.

They cannot do criminal investigations such as theft or break and enters. I feel that our tax dollars would be better spent on more RCMP officers in the county. With that said, I will be voting no to the plebiscite question.

Darrell Younghans

Why he's running - I had to think long and hard before attempting to enter politics again. In the end I felt I still had something to offer the residents of Division 1. My experience at governance, as well as a skill set that I can take to council table in presenting the concerns of the residents of Division 1.

What does he see as the pressing issues - In my opinion, the biggest issue facing the county and its residents right now is the ever-increasing rate of property crimes. It seems thefts and break-ins are the most talked about topics, and although the laws being broken and the sentencing of the guilty fall wholly in federal and provincial jurisdictions, I believe a strong unified council voice and lobbying by municipal associations can bring about changes to these laws.

Economic diversification is another area I believe the county needs to improve on.

On bylaw enforcement - My simple answer to the plebiscite issue is I personally will be voting "no." Although the increasing crime rate in the county is alarming, the number of officers needed to combat this would eat up the majority of the county's current budget, and goes way beyond the score of bylaw enforcement.

Three first-time candidates vie for Division 2 seat, Suvak takes on incumbent Martin in Division 3

Division 2 Myra Bochon

Why she's running -

As a business owner in the town of Elk Point, I was active in their Chamber of Commerce for several years volunteering with different chamber-hosted events. I currently enjoy volunteering with Haying in the 30's. I am community minded and feel it is important to get involved to make a difference.

I recently decided to make a career change that would still enable me to be connected with the public. I now have the time available to commit to serving as councillor for the residents of Division 2.

As with my former career, I feel that communication plays an essential role in the daily operation of any organization. Listening to the residents of Division 2 and being able to effectively communicate their input at council is what I aim to achieve. I not only want to work for the residents, but also with them.

What does she see as pressing issues - The importance of fiscal responsibility and common sense spending ranks high on my priority list. Because of this, I feel that the biggest issue for county council to face over the next term will be finding a balance between the budget available and the needs/expectations of the residents.

On bylaw enforcement - I feel that the plebiscite question in regards to the hiring of peace officers may be premature since there seem to be more questions arising than information available on that topic. I would want to know the duties and expectations for that position as well as a cost vs. benefit comparison to make an informed decision.

Ron Heraid

Why he's running - I am running for councillor because I feel I can make a difference in the problems this division is experiencing, and also bring new ideas to the table to benefit the whole division. I feel that it is time for some changes in our county and for the benefit of having someone who is willing to listen to people and what they want and to bring their choices to the attention of the council of the County of St. Paul. I have lived in this division for many years so I feel

I have the knowledge of many of the problems in this area as well as with many new ideas on help to solve them.

What does he see as pressing issues - I believe the biggest issues in the County of St. Paul are the condition of our roads and the rising occurrences of crime and the problems about people feeling they have no voice when it comes to the problems in their Division.

I believe that if peace officers can help with the workload of the RCMP by helping with the theft problems, the vandalism problems, home violence, etc., they would be very worthwhile, but if they can only deal with giving out tickets and dealing with stray animals then maybe the money could be better spent.

Kevin Wirsta

Why he's running - I have the ability to communicate, be an effective listener, and have an ability to bring people together to create viable and innovative solutions. I would like to apply my knowledge and experience to the County of St. Paul Council to put together a viable and strategic plan for the future of our County and assist with its implementation.

What does he see as pressing issues - I want to see taxpayers receive more value for their tax dollars. I'm not running because I'm looking for a career change or because I'm semi-retired and "have the time," I'm running because I am passionate about the future of our County and I want to make a difference.

What does he see as pressing issues - Crime prevention - I would like to see more options explored in this area; and road maintenance - I would like to see more consistent road maintenance and better base structures to reduce ongoing repairs.

And while not being a "big issue" facing the County, I think it is important to complete the gate sign program by closing the loop on the GPS system coordinates with all of our residents and businesses. We currently have many addresses that do not correspond with the GPS systems, which is very important for our residents when requiring emergency services.

On bylaw enforcement - I think the residents of the County of St. Paul, including myself, should be provided with more detailed information as to the scope of the peace officer's role before making this important decision. Upon being informed and voting, I would support the ratepayers' decision.

Division 3 Cliff Martin (Incumbent)

Why he's running - I believe I have the experience to represent the residents of Division 3 in an effective manner, having served on council for 13 years (seven as deputy reeve) as well as currently serving on 17 boards and committees for the County.

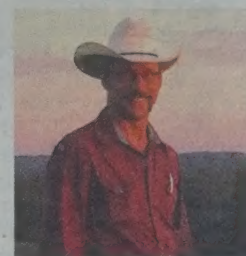

Also I have 20 years of experience on the board of directors (15 years as president) for the local Co-op. I am committed to working as a team to move the County forward and believe that together we can work to improve the quality of life for the entire community.

What does he see as pressing issues - There are always issues coming forward with our infrastructure, which are largely weather, dependent but we strive to improve these on a continuous basis. Other issues facing the County include the Moose Hills Slide, completion of the water line to Mallaig, and the increased amount of clubroot that has been detected.

On bylaw enforcement - I am remaining neutral until the plebiscite is held. I do have some concerns as to the cost to the taxpayers to have officers serve the entire county 24/7 as it would be necessary to be fair to all our ratepayers.

Ray Suvak

Why he's running - I have lived and worked in the county all my life. I've seen many changes, good and bad. My objective is to bring back communication between ratepayers and county council.

What does he see as pressing issues - There are a number of issues the county is faced with. Roads play a big part in the issues, also having a balanced budget, and hiring bylaw enforcement officers.

On bylaw enforcement - Although we need law enforcement, I think this will create animosity between the county and the ratepayers.

Bengals roaring as ice goes in at AGR

Another terrific weekend for the hungry Bengals, continuing their winning streak with their fourth of the season, this time over the Lloydminster Chargers 15 to 1. This was the closest match of the year for the Bengals who came out of gate strong once more and were winning 14 to 0 in the first half, with the help of the Elk Point crew, Odin 'the Wall' Smith making a tackle and stripping the ball in the second quarter for a turnover, Charlie 'Chuckles' Rogal with an interception carrying the ball 15 yards before being pulled down. 'Danny Boy' Cardinal with a tackle on the 20-yard line to save a Chargers touchdown.

This coming weekend the Bengals will be off eating Thanksgiving turkey, bulking up for the biggest test of the year against Bonnyville on October 14th, the last regular season game, the winner clutching first place, the loser second, a match up that will likely be a preview of the league championship.

Lions update

On Friday night under the lights the St. Paul Lions lost a very close one down in Wainwright 38 to 30. This coming week on Thursday, Oct 5th the Lions will hosting Westlock.

Kick off is at 4 p.m., with a fundraiser BBQ for kid sports that evening as well. Come out and support the team.

Fall ball

Review Sports

The 'Wizard' was performing his magic tricks again this past weekend for the Edmonton Padres fall ball team.

Ace pitcher Austin Stafford with a real spin on the ball that was impossible to touch getting 6 Ks, giving those batters a chair, closing out the game on Saturday against the Edmonton Prospects by chucking the three final innings, the game ending in a 4-all tie. On Sunday the birthday boy was at it again. This time at the plate with the bases juiced, he pounded a double to the wall driving in two runs, then at his next at bat hitting a triple, and a single in the same game, the only thing he needed was a home run for the cycle!

Ice time!

The A. G. Ross ice plant is running and unless there's a hiccup the kids should be skating by the weekend. Come on out and end a hand at tonight's planned work bee.

And now for the K. A. Campbell quote of the week. "Football doesn't build character, it eliminates weak ones" - Darrell Royal TAZMANIA SILVER - The F. G. Miller Senior Crusader Boys and coach Jon Randall brought home the silver from the annual Tazmania tournament in St. Paul. Congratulations to a hardworking crew of young athletes, many of whom also took part in the St. Paul Athletic Association Cross Country competition on Thursday.
